

(Warren, Ohio) – Today, Allegiant Air announced that it would expand its service at the Youngstown-Warren Regional Airport to include flights to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Allegiant currently runs flights from Youngstown-Warren to Orlando, Florida.

“The end of a cold February is the perfect time to announce additional flights from the Youngstown-Warren Regional Airport to a sunny, southern location,” noted Congressman Ryan.

“Regional cooperation and the forward-thinking leadership of current and past Chairmen of the Western Reserve Port Authority, Scott Lynn and John Masternick, have led to the expansion of Allegiant Air’s investment in the Mahoning Valley. □ This announcement reinforces the positive economic news that our Valley has been receiving over the last several weeks.□ And as we continue to add significant numbers of good-paying jobs to our community, our residents will be able to afford a few days of well-earned vacation.”
